Little actions repeated relentlessly result in big change. Don't underestimate the importance of 'small' multiplied by 'often.

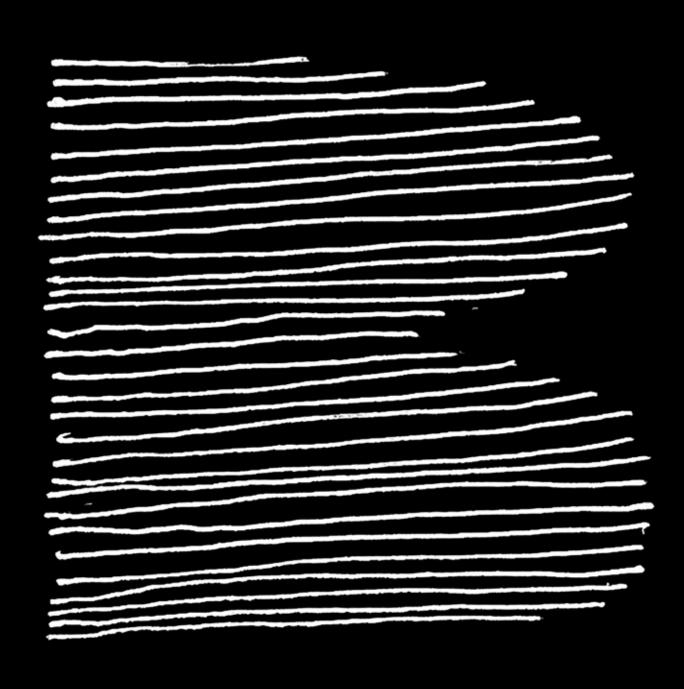

from Manifesto of a Doer, The Do Lectures

This collection of letterforms was created by participants in the Fall 2020 section of ART2110 Graphic Design Process and Thinking taught by Mark Zurolo.

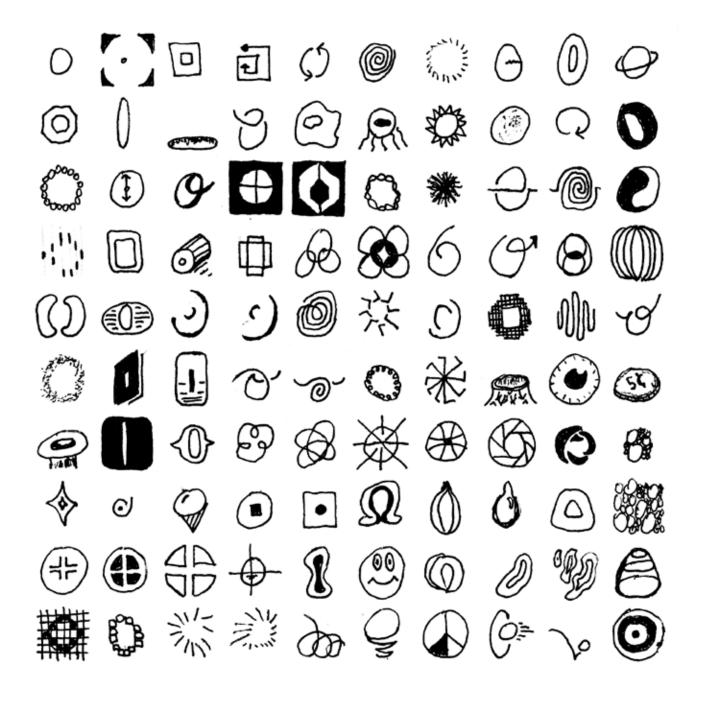

Every week participants print a supplied grid of 100 squares, select one letter, either upper or lowercase, and draw a new original letter in each square. Occasionally a theme is provided that requires visual research on that theme. The 100 letter drawings of that week are then created in response to that theme.

Participants are encouraged to draw throughout the week, rather than in a single sitting. Inevitably those drawings done in one long effort suffer over the course of the drawings. Imagination and stamina wanes. The aim is to draw 15 to 20 letters at different intervals in your day throughout the week — when you're riding the bus, waiting for a class to start, eating lunch. Find those small pockets of time that are often overlooked (or spent checking social media) and fill them with a drawing or two. Sheets are shared weekly with fellow participants.
