Habitat Conservation

- Protecting large landscapes with high biodiversity
- Conserving forests, estuaries, coastal areas, and other critical ecosystems

Over 75 years the Richard King Mellon Foundation has committed approximately $1 billion to conserve and restore critical habitats in Pennsylvania and nationally, to promote sustainable economic development, and to create livable communities. In the process, the Foundation has protected more than four million acres of precious lands across the country and has helped to make Pittsburgh an internationally recognized center for sustainability.
