

Distracted to Death

Seems some people are more attached to their phones than their own lives... part of a broader campaign to curb distracted driving by reminding drivers what they have to lose.