And it continues with us. Black history is an integral part of our nation's past, so it must be told and retold — during Black History Month and beyond. This February, let's take a moment to honor the contributions, triumphs, and stories of Black Americans.

And it continues with us. Throughout history, women have often been unsung heroes. That's why Women's History Month is a time to honor the achievements, resilience, and leadership of the women who helped build America, and paved the way for equal rights.

And it continues with us. During Pride Month and beyond, we must stand up for every letter of the LGBTQIA+ community. Because by bringing true equality to the world, we're making it a better place for all to call home, even with all our differences.

And it continues with us. This Veterans Day, take a moment to thank a veteran or active service member. Without their strength and sacrifice, our country wouldn't be the same. By sharing our appreciation, we can help be there for those who serve — past, present, and future.
