

Walk the Line

Part of a larger campaign to curb drunk driving... reminding young drivers that it's no routine stop. You go through hell. They you might get arrested. The goal of the campaign was to put drivers right in a field sobriety test so they can really feel what's on the line.